ABSTRACT

In recognition of the continuing importance of women's contributions to the Veterans Administration mission, and in response to a growing interest in the subject on the part of both men and women, this brief reading list has been designed as a general introduction to the concerns of women, their work and their place in society. The list was compiled by theCentral Office Library staff of the Veterans Administration in conjunction with the Federal Women's Program Coordinator. The majority of these books were copyrighted after 1970, but several of an older imprint date are included because of their in-depth treatment of a special topic or because of their historical value. PREFACE

President Gerald R. Ford recently designated August 26, 1974, as "Women's Equality Day," commemorating the 54th Anniversary of the 19th Amendment to the Constitution which gives women the right to vote. In part, Proclamation 4309 observes that "special efforts have been made in the Federal Government, so that women now contribute more fully than ever before to the formulation and execution of public policy."

In recognition of the continuing importance of women's contributions to the VA mission and in response to a growing interest in the subject on the part of both men and women, the attached reading list has been designed as a general introduction to the concerns of women, their work and their place in society. The list was compiled by the Central Office Library staff in conjunction with the Federal Women's Program Coordinator from the Office of the Assistant Administrator for Personnel.

The majority of these books are copyrighted since 1970, but several of an older imprint date are included because of their in-depth treatment of a special topic, or their historical value. Books with numbers in parentheses are cataloged in the Central Office Library, and may be borrowed directly by Central Office staff or through the Chief Librarian at each VA facility. The library will borrow other books on interlibrary loan upon request from the patron.
